DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 12-15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Emoto (5679384).

Emoto teaches the claimed apparatus having

Emoto teaches an injection molding apparatus having an outer frame (11), the outer frame having movable sections (56) and a fixed section (41) attached to the outside portion of the outer frame, the outer frame and fixed sections are arranged to surround the screw shaft (63). The first portion (63) is attached to the injection unit (12), the second portion detachably attached to the frame (41) facing the first portion, the second portion is disposed in a hole in the frame and relative to the first portion.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

5. Claim 1, 2, 5-8 and 11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Shibuya (6051896).

Shibuya teaches the claimed apparatus having an injection mechanism with a movable section (51) linked to the screwshaft (Ks) extending in an axial direction, an outer frame (4), a fixed section attached to the outer frame, extending in the axial direction (84, 85a, 85b, 85c, 85d), a plurality of linear motors (3) each comprised of a movable section, an outer frame and fixed section surround the screw shaft (Fig. 1, 11, 12).

Shibuya fails to teach the fixed section detachably attachable to the outer frame. However, the fixed sections comprise of separate elements from the outer frame (4) and upon disassembly of the apparatus would allow for the detachment of the elements. Thus it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to recognize that the fixed section is detachably attached to the outer frame.

6. Claim 9 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Shibuya in view of Chaya.

Shibuya fails to teach adjustment means.

Chaya teaches a linear motor, wherein a position adjustment means (Fig. 6) adjust the gaps between the magnets (13) and the corresponding inner yokes (12) on which the linear motor magnetic circuit coils (9) arranged on the head carriage (6) are respectively wound and thus maximizing the efficiency of the of magnets (Col. 1, lines 50-52).

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to modify Shibuya with adjustment means as taught by Chaya because it allows for adjusting the gap between parts and thereby improve efficiency of the magnets.

7. Claim 10 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Shibuya et al in view of Wacker (EP 0744815 A2).

Shibuya fails to teach a linear guide.

Wacker teaches linear motor elements (PM) on a frame (T) that surrounds the element (P), a linear guide is provided at a point in the frame represented at SP.

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to modify Shibuya with a linear guide to the frame as taught by Wacker because it ensures the movable section moves accordingly in the desired direction.

Allowable Subject Matter

8. Claims 3 and 4 are allowed.

9. Claims 3 and 4 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

10. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance: The prior art of record fails to teach a molding machine having a linear motor on the fixed section and movable section, wherein the fixed section of the linear motors are detachably attached to the outer frame or the fixed section is a lid to the hole section in the outer frame. The closest prior art, Shibuya, fails to teach this detachable fixed section.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."

Response to Arguments

11. Applicant's arguments, see amendment B, filed 6/9/03, with respect to the rejection(s) of claim(s) 1-11 under Shibuya, Chaya and Wacker have been fully considered and are not persuasive. Therefore, a new rejection has been made concerning the newly amended claims 1-11 to address the matter of the detachably attached fixed section to the outer frame. A new ground(s) of rejection is made in view of Emoto concerning newly added claims 12-15.

Art Unit: 1722

Conclusion

12. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
